

CANADA-US RELATIONS TOP INTERNATIONAL PRIORITY - CANADIAN CHAMBER

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce today welcomed the release of Canada's international policy statement and reaffirmed that maintaining strong economic ties and positive political relations between Canada and the U.S. must be the number one priority for Canadian international policy.

"Our members believe that increased economic cooperation between Canada and the U.S. should be at the centre of Canada's international policy," said Nancy Hughes Anthony, President and CEO of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. "There is no question that Canada can maintain its sovereignty and yet create a more efficient and deeper economic and trading relationship with the United States."

The Canadian Chamber supports Canada's commitment to increasing international trade opportunities with other regions and countries and for the establishment of rules-based trade through free trade agreements. However, with growing global competition for investment and for trade, Canadian international policy must also establish policies that will make it more attractive for foreign direct investment in Canada and for Canadian business to compete internationally. The State of Trade 2004, also released today, reported that direct investment inflows to Canada fell for the fourth straight year.

"If Canada is going to take advantage of the opportunities for increased trade with China, India and Brazil, we have to become more productive and that means addressing our high taxes, heavy regulatory burden and our inter-provincial trade barriers," added Ms. Hughes Anthony.
